Miss Rushworth's Weekly Challenge Box!

Challenge 1:

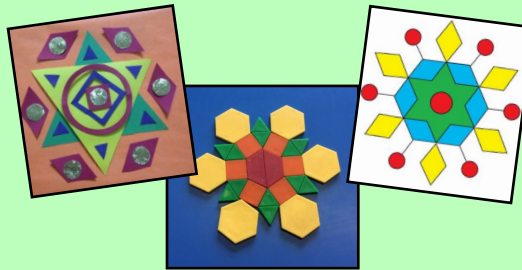

'The Elephants and the Mice' is an Indian fable about helping others and not underestimating others based on their appearance. After listening and/or watching the story, can you make a storyboard to show what happens? For each part of the story draw a picture and write a sentence about what is happening.

Top tip: Remember, if you are not sure what happens next, you can read the story and/or watch the videos as many times as you would like.

Challenge 2:

Rangoli is an Indian art form in which patterns are created on the floor or the ground using materials such as colored rice, dry flour, coloured sand or flower petals. Can you help draw and cut out lots of different 2D shapes and use them to make your own Rangoli pattern?

Extension: If you would like to have a go at making Rangoli patterns using coloured rice, the instructions are below.

Challenge 3:

Diwali is a festival in India to celebrate new beginnings. It is known as the 'festival of lights' because houses and shops are decorated with small oil lamps called 'diyas' and there is a huge firework display. Can you have a go at my firework challenge? Ask an adult to write different addition and subtraction questions on a sheet of paper. Your job is to answer the questions and draw the firework or rocket trail using that number of shapes.

Celebrate your achievements by posting them on Tapestry!
