

Science: Adaptation of Finches

Now that you have completed your experiment looking at adaptation of finches, we would like you to create your own finch that has adapted to a different environment. Think carefully about the shape of the beak, the colour, what food it may eat and any other adaptations it may need to survive in your chosen biome.

Design and annotate your finch giving explanations of each adaptation.