

War has began

As I walked through war , I saw horses all prepared for battle, weapons all carved for war and shields that laid flat on the hard, brick ground. However, on the other side the light had shined over the swords that had just been made, spears pointing up all sharp and burnished and maces a heavy head with a range of painful spikes used for blows upon the head of an enemy

Where did it all begin?

The war had taken place in the Battle of Hastings , the Battle of Hastings had a beautiful royal castle that stood over the crown of Harold Godwinson who had been throned on the most special day, January 6, 1066 since William Edward's unfortunate passing, Harold

Godwinson had actually been announced royal at Winchester Abbey by the archbishop of York

The tactics used

Normans the brain of Einstein, had used tactics such as called calvary, who were trained at a very young age, and interestingly the horses had been trained on how to kick and brutally bite the enemies of the Normandy , archers were also used quite frequently. On the other hand, the Anglo Saxons also had tactics that were full of thought, the most talked about was the shield wall formed by soldiers standing in a formation shoulder to shoulder , holding their shields so they abut. Another tactic used by Anglo Saxons was exchange missiles - each side would dart arrows and throw javelins, axes and rocks to shatter the enemy's reconcile.

How did the battles commence?

The Battle of Hastings established in 1066 because King Edward who had passed 23, June 1066 - 28 May 1067 leaving his throne unseated without an heir. Harold Godwinson was proclaimed king, but William did not sit right with this and he immediately disputed his seat. On September 28 1066, William built a huge fleet and invaded England, he crucially defeated Harold II. William had arrived with approximately 7,000 troops and cavalry.

What had happened when the battle had concluded?

After hours of blood splattering, spears flying King Harold II had been vanquished by the Norman forces of William the Conqueror located at the Battle of Hastings, which had been battled on Senlac Hill (7 miles from Hastings) ,England.

How long did the battle last for?

The battle lasted a day and ended with the passing of the Anglo-Saxon king, Harold Godwinson which resulted to William the duke of Normandy being crowned King William I of England only 10 weeks later.

How was former King Harold II killed?

Harold Godwinson had been assassinated by an arrow to his eye leaving him dead.

