

Information for Parents

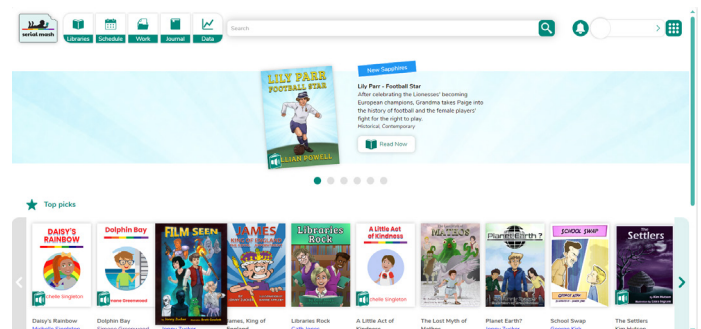

Parents,

Do you want your children to be more confident readers? Do you wish you could take children's books with you on your trips away without using space in your luggage?

This summer, our school is taking part in Serial Mash Summer, a fantastic summer reading challenge, aimed at getting children excited about reading.

Serial Mash is an online library of over 200 age-appropriate children's books with bright pictures and exciting story lines. It offers a wide range of books, fiction and non-fiction for children aged 5-11. With books organised into genres, browsing is simple. From adventure to sci-fi to mystery and more, there is something for everyone.

Over the summer, your child will have access to all of the books on Serial Mash - including non-fiction books from DK Learning - as well as interactive activities linked to the books. There are also online reading journals which automatically saves any Serial Mash book that your child reads, and gives you and their teacher the opportunity to write a comment.

As a school, we'll be aiming to boost the amount of minutes read by the children, which are automatically tracked within Serial Mash. The total minutes read for participating classes will be submitted by their teacher in September for the chance for our school and your child to win prizes!

How you can support your child

Your child will bring their Serial Mash login home, which you can use to log in to <https://serialmash.com/login> - if your child has access to Purple Mash, they can switch to their Serial Mash account using the menu in the top right-hand corner when logged in to Purple Mash. All you need to do during the summer is encourage them to read - the online platform will do the rest!

If you need any support with the Serial Mash account, just email support@2simple.com
